Why Work Meetings Matter https://www.millertanner.com/why-internal-meetings-matter/

By the numbers: the bad

8 -17 meetings per week across all employee types and company size

37%-67% are pointless

Costing $541bn

Every year, 24 billion hours will be wasted in pointless meetings.

By the numbers: the ugly

The opportunity cost - pre, during, and post

- ~11 million meetings held on average every single day
- 62 meetings every month on average.
- middle managers spends ~35% of their time in meetings
- those higher up can spend 50% of their time in meetings

Each week, people spend on average 5 hours 3 minutes in meetings and 4 hours 15 minutes preparing for them.

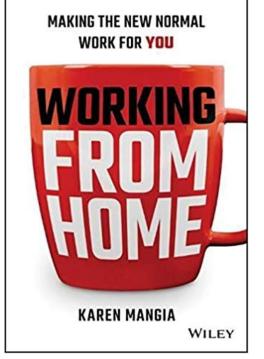

How Much Time Do We Spend in Meetings? (Hint: It's Scary) https://www.cleverism.com/time-spent-in-meetings/

By the numbers: the covid

13.5% ↑ # of meetings on average rose from 5.9 meetings pre- lockdown, to 6.9 meetings post
20.1% ↓ average length of meetings decreased

Virtual meetings can save time:

40% of workers waste up to 30 minutes just searching for a collaborative space for meetings.

How many meetings do you have per week on average?

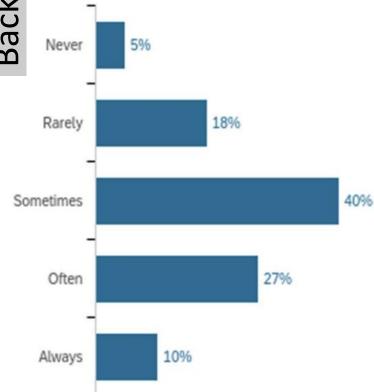

How often do you multitask during video conferences?

Opportunity at

- 37% multitask always or often during video conferences
- why we multitask:
  "some meetings don't require our full participation and so it's ok to multitask."

Multitasking and Remote Meetings

More multitasking happens in:

- large meetings
- long meetings
- morning meetings
- in recurring and scheduled meetings vs ad hoc meetings

Notifications distract people from the meeting itself

Multitasking

- + can boost productivity
- causes mental fatigue, loss of attention, disrespect

Support meeting related multitasking behavior such as note taking and searching for information

Goals:

- Bring everyone involved up-to-date, promote collaboration
- Share progress made, challenges, and next steps
- Promote accountability & address challenges
- A plan of action with clearly delineated responsibilities

Decision-making meetings

Purpose: Agree on a course of action Goals:

- Bring in expertise and explore options
- Solicit different points of view and opinions
- Build consensus
- Identify next steps

Working meetings - Edward Tufte says use meeting time to read!

Problem-solving meetings

Purpose: Figure out what caused a specific issue & how to correct it Goals:

- Incident response or strategy session
  - What is (and what caused) the problem?
  - How can we address the problem immediately?
  - How can we prevent the problem from recurring?
  - What course of action will we take and why?
- Solution, timetable, and safeguards

Next Opportunity at Work 2021 Innovate, Collaborate, Grow!

Team-building meetings

Purpose: Foster understanding of one another and further cohesion Goals:

- Improving trust among teammates
- Helping the group feel valued and welcomed
- Bolstering shared vision around mission
- Increasing dedication to getting the job done

Info-sharing meetings

Purpose: Educate the team in-depth on pertinent topics Goals:

• Share information to help folks in their roles

Innovation meetings

THE ART OF GETTING YOUR SH*# DONE

which drive most of the value.

Relentlessly.

1. Relentless Focus2. Single TaskFocus on the 10% of your activitiesMultitasking is a myth.

Multitasking is a myth. By doing multiple things at the same time we keep ourselves busy doing shitty work with lousy outcomes. Laser sharp focus.

3. Boring Consistency

Do the right things over a la over again. Consistency forme nabits. Habits make hard things effortless.

Don't bullsh yourself or others. Apply brutal honesty and transparency to everything you do.

5. No Meetings

Meetings come in only two forms: Standing or social. If it's social, it's over breakfast, lunch, coffee, dinner or drinks. If not – don't sit down.

6. Follow Up Don't let others wait for your part of the job. Ever.

5. No Meetings

Alternative ways to get outcomes?

- Are there other ways to get the info you need?
- Consider the value of asynchronous, thoughtful feedback, and polls
- Refer back to purpose
- Design for desired outcome?

3. Fewer Attendees: Who needs to be there?

- Required vs Optional
  - Supervisors make it clear it is actually optional
  - Help people decide which meetings to attend.
  - Help people skip some parts of the meeting.
  - Recording for asynchronous participation

4. Less frequent meetings

- How often do you need to meet?
- How many times do you need to meet?
- Is there an "ending date?"

Which way do you think will be the easiest for you to reduce the number of meetings?

Reshape Meetings

1. No Agenda, No Attenda

- If no one has anything to discuss, cancel the meeting, end early
- Collaborative agenda
  - Append!
- Assign times

2. Democratize Meetings

- Append items to collaborative agenda
- Collaborative notetaking
- Take space, make space
- Better allies
- Better leadership
  - Psychological safety
  - Rotate order, moderation
  - Invite comments

4. Avoid "Simple Sabotage"

- Insist on doing everything through "channels."
- Never permit shortcuts to expedite decisions.
- Talk as frequently as possible and at great length.
- Refer all matters to committees
- Make committees as large as possible -- never fewer than five.
- Bring up irrelevant issues as frequently as possible.
- Haggle over precise wordings
- Refer back to matters decided upon at the last meeting and attempt to reopen that decision.

SMALL TALK MAKES US SMARTER

Researchers at the University of Michigan found that social interaction such as a 'get-to-know-you' conversation can help you focus, plan, prioritize, and organize.<sup>1</sup>

SMALL TALK MAKES US HAPPIER

According to a study by Nicholas Epley and Juliana Schroeder, interacting with strangers results in a more positive experience than solitude.<sup>2</sup>

SMALL TALK MAKES US FEEL BETTER

University of British Columbia researchers found that daily interactions with casual acquaintances like your local barista contributes to feelings of "belonging and happiness."<sup>3</sup>
